

Friends hold Annual Booksale

Department stores may have a sale-a-day. But when Friends of Smyrna Library has a book sale, it's a genuine bargain-hunters' dream, a twice-a-year event that offers new releases and yesterday's best sellers, most all for $5 or less. The spring book sale is scheduled for April 29th, in conjunction with the city's Jonquil Festival. Don't miss it. And if you'd like to help the Friends, we'd welcome book donations. We especially welcome children's books. The demand is always greater than our supply - a good sign that the younger generation will be readers.

Volunteers, too, are welcomed. Our volunteers include those who have participated for ages, like Smyrna resident Wenona Halderman, and newcomers, like Smyrna's Naryan Senghitta, who participated as a volunteer for the first time last fall - though he had been a frequent customer at previous sales. Those who are interested in volunteering should call Jim Wooten at 770-432-9883.
